

Live Free... Or Whatever

On November 18 New Hampshire's five-member Ballot Law Commission listened to strong arguments from attorney Orly Taitz, who called for Obama's name to be eliminated from the state's 2012 ballots because he is ineligible to serve as president. Dr. Taitz provided 85 pages of documents showing that the birth certificate Obama provided in April 2011 is a forgery, and demonstrating that Obama has been using a stolen Social Security number issued in Connecticut—a state in which he never lived or worked.

The cowardly commission concluded that Obama can remain on the ballot because the proper form was submitted, along with the required $1,000 filing fee. Apparently, New Hampshire will allow Hugo Chavez, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, or Kim Jong-Il on the ballot as long as they fill out a form and fork over $1,000.

At Examiner.com, Linda Bentley sensibly suggests that it may be time for New Hampshire to replace its now-inappropriate state motto, "Live Free or Die."

Note: More than a few concerned Americans are contacting New Hampshire State Legislators to express their dissatisfaction with the Ballot Law Commission's refusal to follow state law—which requires that presidential candidates be allowed on the ballot only if they are “natural born citizens” (that is, born on U.S. soil to two U.S. citizen parents).
