'Being the Father I Never Had'

Introduction

Father's Day is Sunday, June 19, 2011. Father's Day complements Mother's Day and was first observed in Fairmont, West Virginia on July 5, 1908. About eighteen months earlier in Monongah, West Virginia 210 fathers were lost in the Monongah Mine disaster. The organizer of this Father's Day was Mrs. Grace Golden Clayton. She chose July 5 because it was the Sunday closest to her deceased father's birthday. It was celebrated only this one time and never again. West Virginia did not recognize and officially register the holiday.¹

In 1909, Sonora Smart Dodd of Spokane, Washington independently observed a Father's Day honoring her own father, the Civil War veteran William Jackson Smart, a single parent who raised six children on a farm near Spokane, Washington. In an article titled Father to have his day, the New York Times of October 3, 1913 reported that a bill had been introduced in Congress to designate the first Sunday in June of every year as Father's Day.² No action was taken to make the legislative initiative become law. Three years later President Woodrow Wilson travelled to Spokane to speak at a Father's Day celebration. President Wilson wanted to make Father's Day an official holiday. However, too many Congressmen thought that such a day would eventually become too commercialized and no legislative action came out of the debates.³ Eleven years later in 1924, President Calvin Coolidge recommended that The United States of America observe a Father's Day. Yet, he did not issue a proclamation and no action was undertaken by Congress.⁴ In 1957, Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine criticized Congress for ignoring American Fathers for forty years while during the same period

American Mothers had always been honored. Her argument was that the mothers had been singled out to be honored and fathers were being discriminated.⁵ In 1966, President Lyndon B. Johnson issued a presidential proclamation honoring fathers and designated the third Sunday in June as the official Father's Day. In 1972, President Richard M. Nixon signed a law making Father's Day a permanent, national holiday.⁶ At the signing ceremony one of the attendants remembered that there had been a Father's Day in 1908. Historical research was begun with the result that Fairmont, West Virginia is now the official birthplace of Father's Day and Mrs. Grace Golden Clayton its recognized initiator.

Odd as it may be, Barack Hussein Obama has been praised as one of the most eloquent persons to ever speak in public. On June 15, 2008 Barack Hussein Obama gave a Father's Day speech at the Apostolic Church of God in Chicago, Illinois. The speech received very positive coverage at the New York Times and the Huffington Post.⁷ For all of the praise heaped upon the speech, those praising the speech were unable to see the forest because of the trees. The speech was fundamentally off-target. Barack Hussein Obama did not say anything about the fact that mothers fail to understand the significance of fathers, which is most likely the core reason why so many children have fatherless homes. At one time in the United States of America it was accepted as a common reality that children needed both a mother and a father in order for them to be raised properly. However, leftist, progressive ranting have convinced society that it is absolutely politically correct for a child to have no father as long as the father pays for child support and can pay visits to his children once a month, if that. This stance is a turn-around of logic. It is politically incorrect. What is politically correct is to marry before you have children. Once man and woman are married, they should stay married as long as there are children in the family. That is what is at the heart of Father's Day and Mother's Day, as well. Call this author conservative, if you will – Please do! – but the morality of having a core family with both mother and father is greatly more important than any progressive hogwash that single-parent households are the proper living style.

This being the case, a sentence-by-sentence examination of Barack Hussein Obama's essay as it appeared on the Internet and in PEOPLE Magazine on June 8, 2011 is appropriate. Each sentence written by Barack Hussein Obama is examined separately. The author's clarifications/comments are in red.

'Being the Father I Never Had'

by Barack Obama

The introductory statement by PEOPLE Magazine reads as follows with the present author's comments in red:

*In an exclusive Father's Day essay, the (putative) President of the United States – and elementary school basketball coach (It would be better for the United States of America if Barack Hussein Obama were only an elementary school basketball coach and in his free time would play golf.) – Barack Obama tells PEOPLE readers how growing up without a dad made him want to be the best parent he could. (One should wish that he had grown up with a father. Perhaps Barack Hussein Obama would never have become a bogus potus. The non-American family would have moved to Kenya and stayed there. It is common knowledge that Muslim parents, particularly the father, take total possession of their sons and bring them up in the Islamic ummah culture.⁸)*

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: So Barack Hussein Obama wants to be the best parent he can be. If we take the following short essay from PEOPLE Magazine and use it as an example to emulate and show how good a father he is, particularly at writing and stating facts, then Barack Hussein Obama is exceedingly bad!

There are people who are great orators and bad orators. There are people who are great rhetoricians and bad rhetoricians. There are people who are good examples of character and bad examples of character. There are people who are good politicians and bad politicians. Barack Hussein Obama comes in first in all categories, but only with the respect to the second adjective: bad!

Furthermore, the title of the essay is grammatically ambiguous. This is bad English style. What does Barack Hussein Obama mean with the title of the essay? It would be truly revealing to know who Barack Hussein Obama's father really was or is. Knowing this would allow a more exact examination of the character of Barack Hussein Obama's non-father and Barack Hussein Obama himself. The ambiguity concerns two questions:

Is Barack Hussein Obama stating that Barack Obama Senior was a bad father and that Barack Hussein Obama wants to be like him – a non-father?

⁸ The ummah is the Islamic concept of the world community of all Muslims believing in the Koran only. The concept of the ummah is diametrically opposed to the concept of the nation in Western Civilization.

Is Barack Hussein Obama stating that he never had a father and because he never had a father he would like to be a father? (Of course, Barack Hussein Obama had a father. There are speculations that it was his father figure and arch communist Frank Marshall Davis, or Malcolm Little, aka, Malcolm X, or even a man named Bounel with whom he shares an illegal social security account number!⁹)

1. I grew up without a father around.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The sentence is bad English style. Barack Hussein Obama grew up without having a father around what? Better English is: I grew up without having a father around the house / in the family / watching over me.

2. I have certain memories of him taking me to my first jazz concert and giving me my first basketball as a Christmas present.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: This sentence contradicts the previous sentence. The chances are 99.9 percent that the content of this sentence is a lie. Are the memories certain or vague? The normal clinically recorded remembrance age for a child going back to the age of two years is extremely seldom. Furthermore, does a two year-old child know what a jazz concert is? Children at the age of two do not know the different musical genres. A caustic question is: Did his father give him a basketball or a golf ball? Furthermore, Don Fredrick, an expert chronicler of Barack Hussein Obama's life states "Obama, Sr. never lived with Obama and his mother, and attended the University of Hawaii while Stanley Ann Dunham lived in Seattle to attend the University of Washington. Obama was deserted by his father just weeks shortly after his birth, if not before. There is no reason to believe that Obama ever attended a jazz concert with Obama, Sr., and it is even less likely that the event would be remembered by an infant. If Obama received a basketball as a gift, it arrived in the mail from Kenya, or was presented during Obama, Sr.'s brief trip to Hawaii in 1971 to attend a school reunion."¹⁰

3. But he left when I was two years old.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: This is a lie! Barack Obama Sr. left Hawaii shortly after Barack Hussein Obama's birth.

4. And even though my sister and I were lucky enough to be raised by a wonderful mother and caring grandparents, I always felt his absence and wondered what it would have been like if he had been a greater presence in my life.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Never begin a sentence with And. It is bad English style and very childish! Barack Hussein Obama's sister was also raised by Lolo Soetoro while they lived in Indonesia. Barack Hussein Obama felt his father's absence? This is extremely questionable and within the boundaries of being a lie due to the fact that he was in Indonesia attending a Muslim school, learning Arabic, and being raised by his substitute father Lolo Soetoro.

5. I still do.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: This short sentence is confusing. This is bad English style. What does Barack Hussein Obama still do? Does Barack Hussein Obama still feel his father's absence or does Barack Hussein Obama wonder what his father's presence would have meant? A one-time presence is also a great presence. A better formulation is: If my father had been present more often. However, since Barack Obama Sr. was really never present, this statement would not make sense either.

6. It is perhaps for this reason that fatherhood is so important to me, and why I've tried so hard to be there for my own children.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: This sentence is bad English style. Where is there? The logic is that Barack Hussein Obama has tried to be anywhere because his own children want him to be anywhere.

7. That's not to say I've always been a perfect dad. I haven't CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: What does Barack Hussein Obama mean with I haven't? Does he mean not saying that he has always been a perfect father? or ... Does he mean that he has not been a perfect father? Barack Hussein Obama has not been a good commander in chief either. Truly he has not been a good, patriotic American, which is difficult because he was born under British colonial laws governing British citizenship.

8. When Malia and Sasha were younger, work kept me away from home more than it should have.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The statement is within the boundaries of being a lie. The reality is that Barack Hussein Obama never really worked in his life. Malia Anne

Obama was born in 1998. Natasha (Sasha) was born in 2001. Barack Hussein Obama was Illinois state senator from 1997 to 2004 and from 2005 to 2008 he was a senator in Congress in Washington, D. C. With his work ethics like "shirking work; claiming success when he was not entitled to do so; hiding his failures; and claiming the work of others as his own – when it was successful",¹¹ there are no reasons why Barack Hussein Obama did not have free family time when his daughters were younger. Furthermore, "When he became a state senator were there instances that revealed work practices that might rub people the wrong way? Yes there were. His state senate colleagues took umbrage at his modus operandi. He was what came to be known as a bill-jacker: someone who takes credit for legislation that others had written and worked the aisles to get passed."¹²

9. At times, the burden of raising our two daughters has fallen too heavily on Michelle.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: At face value, the sentence appears to be okay with respect to content. However, knowing Michelle Obama's negative work ethic, this author construes the statement to be within the boundaries of being a lie. Michelle Obama never experienced real work. Michelle Obama's real passion was hating America and being friends with terrorists like William Ayers and Bernadine Dohrn.¹³ Michelle Obama took a new position in Chicago only after guarantees that she would be looked after and adequately paid (for doing very little work!)¹⁴ In addition, the daughters had their grandmother.

10. During the campaign, not a day went by that I didn't wish I could spend more time with the family I love more than anything else in the world.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The sentence is ambiguous. This is bad English style. Which campaign? There were two campaigns when the daughters were younger: the campaign for senator from Illinois and the presidential campaign of 2008. It would be the best Father's Day gift to the American people if Barack Hussein Obama spent all of his time with his family. Furthermore, Barack Hussein Obama can always quit his present position!

11. But through my own experiences, and my continued efforts to be a better father, I have learned something over the years about what children need most from their parents.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The sentence has improper word order. The sentence is very bad English style. Better English is: But through my own experiences, and my continued efforts to be a better father over the years, I have learned something about what children need most from their parents.

12. They need our time, measured not only in the number of hours we spend with them each day, but what we do with those hours.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Barack Hussein Obama! Take them with you when you play golf! They can caddy for you, show responsibility, and learn how to follow orders!

13. I've learned that children don't just need us physically present, but emotionally available – willing to listen and pay attention and participate in their daily lives.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The sentence is somewhat confusing. This is bad English style. Is Barack Hussein Obama saying that parents do not need to be physically present but emotionally present? Better English is: I've learned that children don't just need us physically present, but at the same time parents must be emotionally available – willing to listen, willing to pay attention, and above all, willing to participate in their daily lives. If the daughters take Barack Hussein Obama as an example, the daughters will learn that all other people are at fault when they make mistakes and that there is nothing better than being a narcissist.

14. Children need structure, which includes learning the values of self-discipline and responsibility.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The daughters surely will not learn structure and self-discipline from their father. They will not learn them from their mother either.

15. Malia and Sasha may live in the White House, but Michelle and I still make sure they do their chores, make their beds, finish their schoolwork and take care of the dog.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Taking care of the dog, making their own bed, doing chores are extremely difficult accomplishments! Are the chores limited to these: making their beds, doing school work, taking care of the dog? That is not much to do when compared with what some teenagers and younger people who work on farms have to do. Barack Hussein Obama and Michelle will undoubtedly make sure that their daughters will not have to work in their lives. It is a law of progressive economics that parasites always live off producers!

16. And above all I've learned that children need our unconditional love-when they succeed and when they make mistakes; when life is easy and life is hard.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Never begin a sentence with And. It is bad English style and very childish! Furthermore, love-when is a grammatical, hyphenated construction that does not exist.

17. Without a doubt, it is easier to raise children in this kind of caring, attentive atmosphere when both parents are present.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The Obama parents must know this since this is what they have always done. Both parents were practically present all of the time.

18. Of course, there are plenty of single parents who do a heroic job of raising their kids.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The word kid is informal English. Regardless of who uses this word to refer to children, it is informal English and really is not a term of endearment. The word came into the English language as slang usage to demean in the English Comedy The Old Law (1599) by Thomas Middleton, William Rowley, and Philip Massinger. The word became established as informal English by the middle of the nineteenth century. It has never progressed beyond informal status. Indeed, it is still used in some instances to demean, since children cry as a young goat. The intellectual genius Barack Hussein Obama apparently does not know this. He probably does not care, since he most likely feels that Barack Hussein Obama can say what he wants to say because he is Barack Hussein Obama. The origin of kid is Old Norse, kidh, from the Germanic stem kidhja-. We do not know what Barack Hussein Obama's origin is!

19. I know this because I was fortunate enough to have one-a mother who never allowed my father's absence to be an excuse for slacking off or not doing my best.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The phrase one-a mother is a grammatical, hyphenated construction that does not exist. Barack Hussein Obama writes about slacking off. Does Barack Hussein Obama mean his drinking and drugs at Occidental College,¹⁵ or not paying parking tickets,¹⁶ or lying on his lawyer's registration form,¹⁷ or forging documents?¹⁸

¹⁵ <http://abagond.wordpress.com/2008/04/11/obama-at-occidental-college/>. Accessed on June 17, 2011.

20. But more and more kids are growing up today without their dads.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The statement is a lie and contradicts proved researched statistics. The latest available information is that approximately 12.9 million families in the United States are headed by a single-parent, and 80% of these families are headed by a female. Furthermore, since 1994, "the percentage of US households headed by a single parent has remained steady at around nine percent, although it has nearly doubled since 1970."¹⁹ Barack Hussein Obama is helping to increase the number of military families who will have no father with his ridiculous Rules of Engagement of the enemy Taliban in Afghanistan, who profit from the one-sided rules issued by Barack Hussein Obama.

Here are some famous people who were raised without a father:

Billy the Kid, Saddam Hussein, Sirhan Sirhan, Adolf Hitler, Robert Graysmith (Zodiac Serial Killer), Mark Lepine (Mass murderer of 14), Jack the Ripper, Lee Harvey Oswald, John Wilkes Booth, Jeffrey Dahmer (The Milwaukee Monster), Charles Manson, Monster (Los Angeles CRIPS Ganglord), and Barack Hussein Obama. Surely all of them are individuals of extremely bad and evil character!

21. And those young folks are more likely to struggle in school, try drugs, get into trouble and even wind up in jail.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Never begin a sentence with And. It is bad English style and very childish! In jail is where Barack Hussein Obama belongs. The following short list of some of Barack Hussein Obama's most severe felonies contains legal reasons why Barack Hussein Obama should be in jail:²⁰

18 U.S.C. 371 Conspiracy to Commit Offense or to Defraud United States.

"If two or more persons conspire either to commit any offense against the United States, or to defraud the United States, or any agency thereof in any manner or for any purpose, and one or more of such persons do any act to effect the object of the conspiracy, each shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than five years, or both. If, however, the offense, the commission of which is the object of the conspiracy, is a misdemeanor only, the punishment for such conspiracy shall not exceed the maximum punishment provided for such misdemeanor."

An analysis by the United States Justice Foundation (USFJ) states that, "As in all conspiracies, there must be two or more persons working in concert to achieve an illegal act, so the president would need a co-conspirator for this statute to apply. The state of Hawaii is being very secretive about the whereabouts or even existence of Mr. Obama's supposed birth certificate. If the officials in charge of keeping these records know of its non-existence, then they would be co-conspirators with the objective of defrauding the United States as to the citizenship status of Barack Obama. There, however, must be an 'in concert' element met, meaning that these officials are withholding the proof at the direction of Mr. Obama. Is it possible that these officials love Barack Obama so much that they are withholding these documents out of the goodness of their own hearts? Yes, possibly, however unlikely. It is reasonable to infer that the Hawaiian officials are working 'in concert' with Mr. Obama to suppress this information, since each would face both civil and criminal suits, not to mention the loss of furthering their own political goals."

18 U.S.C. 911 False Personation of Citizen of the United States.

"Whoever falsely and willfully represents himself to be a citizen of the United States shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than three years, or both."

The USJF analysis says: "If Mr. Obama is not a natural born citizen, then he must have other proof of United States citizenship. If he has neither of these, then as acting head of state he is holding himself out to be a citizen of the United States, and is therefore liable under this section as well."

18 U.S.C. § 912 False Personation of Officer or Employee of the United States.

"Whoever falsely assumes or pretends to be an officer or employee acting under the authority of the United States or any department, agency or officer thereof, and acts as such, or in such pretended character demands or obtains any money, paper, document, or thing of value, shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than three years, or both."

The USFJ analysis is, "Basically this statute calls for 1) fraudulent intent, and 2) an overt act to accomplish the inducement of one giving over a thing of value. If it were found that Barack Obama was not a natural born citizen, as required by the U.S. Constitution Art. II § 1, Clause 5, he will have assumed the office of president fraudulently to obtain money (among other things) by way of his annual salary. The Supreme Court has upheld convictions for False Personations in U.S. v. Lepowitch, (63 S.Ct. 914), and Lamar v. U.S., (36 S.Ct. 535)."

18 U.S.C. 1542 False Statement in Application and Use of Passport.

"Whoever willfully and knowingly makes any false statement in an application for passport with intent to induce or secure the issuance of a passport under the authority of the United States, either for his own use or the use of another, contrary to the laws regulating the issuance of passports or the rules prescribed pursuant to such laws; or Whoever willfully and knowingly uses or attempts to use, or furnishes to another for use any passport the issue of which was secured in any way by reason of any false statement—Shall be fined under this title, imprisoned not more than 25 years (if the offense was committed to facilitate an act of international terrorism (as defined in section 2331 of this title)), 20 years (if the offense was committed to facilitate a drug trafficking crime (as defined in section 929 (a) of this title)), 10 years (in the case of the first or second such offense, if the offense was not committed to facilitate such an act of international terrorism or a drug trafficking crime), or 15 years (in the case of any other offense), or both."

The USJF analysis says: "To obtain a U.S. passport one must show a valid birth certificate or some other form of identification showing U.S. citizenship. Barack Obama would have to have furnished some sort of birth certificate or other document showing he is a citizen. Of course, even if he was not a natural born citizen, he could show naturalization or some other citizenship papers. However, if these documents are spurious, then he would be guilty pursuant to the first paragraph, and to then use his illegally obtained passport, he would also be guilty under the second paragraph as well."

18 U.S.C. 1621 Perjury.

"Whoever—(1) having taken an oath before a competent tribunal, officer, or person, in any case in which a law of the United States authorizes an oath to be administered, that he will testify, declare, depose, or certify truly, or that any written testimony, declaration, deposition, or certificate by him subscribed, is true, willfully and contrary to such oath states or subscribes any material matter which he does not believe to be true; or

(2) in any declaration, certificate, verification, or statement under penalty of perjury as permitted under section 1746 of title 28, United States Code, willfully subscribes as true any material matter which he does not believe to be true; is guilty of perjury and shall, except as otherwise expressly provided by law, be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than five years, or both. This section is applicable whether the statement or subscription is made within or without the United States."

The USJF analysis says: "Mr. Obama has taken the oath of office of POTUS, in front of Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, John Roberts, in which he promises to 'defend the Constitution'. As an illegal alien, or even a non-natural born citizen, he would be acting as an ineligible president. Furthermore, as an attorney, and a former professor of constitutional law, Barack Obama would have full knowledge of the requirements for an eligible candidate for the office of POTUS. This shows that he has willfully stated that he will and is acting contrary to his presidential oath."

18 U.S.C. 2388(a) Activities Affecting Armed Forces During War.

"(a) Whoever, when the United States is at war, willfully makes or conveys false reports or false statements with intent to interfere with the operation or success of the military or naval forces of the United States or to promote the success of its enemies; or Whoever, when the United States is at war, willfully causes or attempts to cause insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny, or refusal of duty, in the military or naval forces of the United States, or willfully obstructs the recruiting or enlistment service of the United States, to the injury of the service or the United States, or attempts to do so—Shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than twenty years, or both."

The USJF analysis says: "Intent is fully at issue here; however, President Obama made it clear during his campaign that his full intent when entering office would be to scale down the conflict with Afghanistan and Iraq, eventually leading to a full withdrawal. His statements of being a natural born citizen to obtain the office of commander in chief were in effort to interfere with the attempts by the former commander in chief's attempt at engaging the enemy in these two countries, for the purpose of national security.

In the case of Schulze v. U.S. (259 F. 189) Petitioner was convicted under this statute, and the question of intent was at issue. The court stated, 'It is true that in charging the offense it is unnecessary to allege the intent; the offense being one whose very definition necessarily includes intent. In such a case it is necessary only to aver in apt terms the acts done. The intent will be inferred. The charge is not unlike that of treason, the indictment for which needs go no further than to follow the language of the statute which defines the offense. (United States v. Greathouse, 2 Abb.U.S. 364, Fed. Cas. No. 15,254)...

This means that intent is inferred from the act itself. Mr. Obama has already announced that the efforts in Afghanistan will be scaled back, and a full withdrawal is planned for 2011. Furthermore, the announcement of this strategy works to the aid of our enemy, who now knows to sit in caves and wait out the U.S. for only a year or so. This certainly works to interrupt our operations and promote the success of our enemy."

Help Kids Reach Their Potential

22. There are too many young people out there who aren't reaching their potential because they don't have a father figure to guide them.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The phrase out there is bad English style. Where is out there? There are also children who are not reaching their potential because Barack Hussein Obama's policies, e. g., Organizing for America, as well as other influences are brainwashing them.²¹

23. And yet, the truth is, it's harder to be a father today, even for those dads who are present in their children's lives.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Never begin a sentence with And. It is bad English style and very childish! How can someone who is a compulsive-pathological-Alinskyite-al-taqiyya liar know what the truth is? Quoting Winston Churchill, Barack Hussein Obama is "a riddle, wrapped in a mystery, inside an enigma ..." and it is time to slice through the Gordian knot with the sword of investigative truth.

24. We are still feeling the aftershocks of a recession that took an especially difficult toll on men.

²¹ <http://9-11domorethenneverforget-stopislam.blogspot.com/2011/01/us-children-are-being-brainwashed-saudi.html>. <http://thebottomlineat.blogspot.com/2011/02/obama-is-preparing-american-children.html>. Accessed on June 17, 2011.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: This statement is a lie! America is still feeling the shocks of a recession continued by Barack Hussein Obama. It is a continued recession which Barack Hussein Obama's socialist policies cannot stop and a recession that really started under the Democrats and gained momentum when Barack Hussein Obama usurped his present position. Indeed, there are very strong suggestions that with the assistance of Timothy Geithner, the present Secretary of the Treasury, the recession was instigated at a critical time in the election campaign when John McCain was leading Barack Hussein Obama in the polls.²²

25. And if you're struggling to pay the bills, a focus on simply getting by can understandably take precedence over everything else.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Never begin a sentence with And. It is bad English style and very childish! Getting by is a colloquialism that means to manage, to survive, and as it is used here it means to fare according to the economic situation. Barack Hussein Obama exercises psychiatric confabulation.

26. We can all do right by our kids.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Seeing that Barack Hussein Obama is occupying his position illegally, why does Barack Hussein Obama not resign? That would be doing something right by all American children. Furthermore, it would show his daughters that there is some iota of respect for the Constitution in him.

27. I have worked hard to get dads help in simple but meaningful ways-by supporting community programs that work with troubled fathers; getting businesses to offer things like discounted movie or sports tickets for fathers to spend more time with their kids; and by making sure dads in the military can keep in contact with their children from overseas.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: This is a lie. Barack Hussein Obama never worked hard in his life. This is a run-on sentence. As such, it is bad English style. The phrase ways-by is a grammatical, hyphenated construction that does not exist. Barack Hussein Obama is not the master of long sentences as was Charles Dickens. The military was always able to keep in contact with their children from overseas long before Barack Hussein Obama became a good-for-nothing politician. The problem with the non-logic is that Barack Hussein Obama is suggesting that only since he became bogus potus, has it been possible for overseas military personnel to be able to communicate with their families in the United States of America. This is an outright lie.

28. And every father can encourage his child to turn off the video games and pick up a book; to study hard and stay in school.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Never begin a sentence with And. It is bad English style and very childish! Barack Hussein Obama should pick up a book on English grammar and oratory and ... study it hard!

29. Every father can pack a healthy lunch for his son, or go outside and play ball with his daughter.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: But Barack Hussein Obama cannot eat a healthy lunch and he never takes his daughters to the golf course!²³

30. No matter how difficult life gets, we can show our kids through our own example the value in treating each other as we wish to be treated.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Here are the ways Barack Hussein wants to be treated:²⁴

- Obama to His Followers: "Get in Their Faces!"
- Obama on ACORN Mobs: "I don't want to quell anger. I think people are right to be angry! I'm angry!"
- Obama to His Mercenary Army: "Hit Back Twice As Hard"
- Obama on the private sector: "We talk to these folks ... so I know whose ass to kick."
- Obama to voters: "Republican victory would mean "hand to hand combat" (sic)
- Obama to liberal supporters: "It's time to Fight for it."
- Obama to Latino supporters: "Punish your enemies."
- Obama to democrats: "I'm itching for a fight."
- Obama regime to the American People: "Bring it (the fight) on."
- Obama: "They bring a knife (his opponents, the Republicans) we bring a gun."
- Obama: "Don't you think we're not keeping score, brother."
- Obama: "My administration is the only thing between you and the pitchforks."
- Obama: "Get ready for hand-to-hand combat with your fellow Americans."
- Obama: "Republicans are our enemies."

- Obama: "I am going to strangle all Republicans who don't agree with me politically."
- Obama: "All those who oppose me or my party, must ride in the back of the bus."
- Obama: "Damn Americans who cling bitterly to their 2nd amendment rights (the constitutional right to keep and bear arms)."
- Obama: "I hope all Americans who dare to criticize our great Marxist heroes die of screaming anal cancer!"
- Obama: "I have no problem with Democrats cheating to win elections, I'd do it in a heartbeat."
- Obama: "Governor Christie (New Jersey) is a fat slob."
- Obama: "We Democrats should rip the heart right out of Vice President of The United States of America Cheney's chest, use it for a football, and then stuff it back in his quivering corpse."

Goggle the quotations and the reader will find out that Barack Hussein Obama said the statements. So much for evidence that shows the exceptional qualities of Barack Hussein Obama the father!

31. These things we can all do.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The fact is that there are a large majority of American fathers who can do things better than Barack Hussein Obama.

32. Our kids understand that life won't always be perfect, that times get tough and that even great parents don't get everything right.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Barack Hussein Obama only gets things right when others do the work and he takes the credit.²⁵

33. More than anything, they just want us to be there-to be present, to care about their lives.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The phrase there-to be is a grammatical hyphenated construction that does not exist. It is bad English style. Barack Hussein Obama needs coaching, psychiatric coaching, particularly concerning his narcissism.

Coaching Moments

34. This year, in addition to being President, I took on a second job.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Evidently acting as president is not a time-consuming position. Barack Hussein Obama needed a second job. A job is work one does for a wage. If a person has a job, it must be registered with the Internal Revenue Service. Did Barack Hussein Obama register his second job with the Internal Revenue Service? If he did not, then he has committed another crime!

35. I was an assistant coach for Sasha's basketball team.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Barack Hussein Obama should have kept the position. It would surely be better for the United States of America.

36. Every Sunday we would bring Sasha and her teammates together for clinics and drills.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The sentence is exceedingly bad English grammar. The predicate would bring is known as Conditional Tense Simple I, If-sentence Type II (would plus present tense of a verb) and it means that an action might take place. The correct predicate instead of would bring is brought. Barack Hussein Obama is such a great rhetorician.

37. It was a lot of fun.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: A lot of fun for whom? Was it a lot of fun like playing a round of golf while North Africa and the Middle East are being overrun by the Muslim Brotherhood?

38. There were even a couple of times when I'd fill in for the regular coaches at the games.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The content of this sentence is the reason for America's problems: Barack Hussein Obama is holding two jobs at one time. Could Barack Hussein Obama's golfing be a third job? Must Barack Hussein Obama hold two jobs to make ends meet? The formulation I'd fill is I would fill and it is exceedingly improper grammar. It is Conditional Tense Simple I, If-sentence Type II (would plus present tense of a verb) and it means that an action might take place. The correct predicate is filled in.

39. I'll admit that this was a little nerve-racking, and I'm sure this was true for Sasha as well, who may have winced when her dad would voice his displeasure with a particular call made by the referee.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: The daughter winced like the very large majority of Americans when Barack Obama makes his calls as bogus potus!

40. But I was so proud, watching her run up and down the court, seeing her learn and improve and gain confidence.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Barack Hussein Obama was proud! Is he no longer proud? This is some more bad English style.

41. And I was hopeful that in the years to come, she would look back on experiences like these as the ones that helped define her as a person – and as a parent herself.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Never begin a sentence with And. It is bad English style and very childish! Barack Hussein Obama was hopeful. Is he no longer hopeful? Her coupled with herself is bad English style! The whole sentence is exceedingly bad English style. The grammar is wrong. Would look is the wrong tense. It is Conditional Tense Simple I, If-sentence Type II (would plus present tense of a verb) and it means that an action might take place. The correct English is: I was hopeful then and I am hopeful now that in the years to come she will look back on experiences like these as the ones that helped to define her as a person – and as a parent.

42. In the end that's what being a parent is all about: those precious moments, the times we spend with our children that fill us with pride and excitement for their future; the chances we have to set an example or offer a piece of advice or just be there to show that we love them.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: This is a run-on sentence. It is bad English style. Barack Hussein Obama is no Charles Dickens. The phrasing what being a parent is all about is crappy English style. (The author is not surprised!) It is non-crappy English to say: In the end that's what being a parent means: ...

43. And that's a lesson worth remembering not just on Father's Day, but every other day too.

CLARIFICATION/COMMENT: Never begin a sentence with And. It is bad English style and very childish! Well, perhaps Barack Hussein Obama should learn his English grammar lessons on other days!

Concluding Standpoint

The essay's statistics show the following results.

Number of sentences in the essay	43
Number of sentences beginning with And.	08
Number of Sentences that are bad English style.	22
Number of additional instances of wrong grammar.	08
Number of instances where the content is an apparent lie.	09

The bottom line is that the essay does not meet the status of good writing. There are forty-seven deficiencies in forty-three sentences!

The fact that Barack Hussein Obama wrote an essay for PEOPLE Magazine does not mean that he is isolated from a critique of his writing. Moreover, the present position that Barack Hussein Obama illegally occupies surely merits that Barack Hussein Obama be criticized not with softball statements, but rather with unequivocal severity. Were this author to grade Barack Hussein Obama's writing capabilities respective his so-called education and position, Barack Hussein Obama would receive an F- for grammar/style and an F for content. The grammar mistakes are simple as if they come from a simple mind. The content deficiencies are such that the statements suggest the truth of a situation that is in reality untruthful. It is coincidentally interesting that the grammar/style and the content mirror Barack Hussein Obama's negative performance as the bogus potus of the United States of America.

PEOPLE Magazine and Barack Hussein Obama use the word dad. The word dad is informal English for father. In some English-speaking regions linguists call this informal type of word a colloquialism. The etymological origin of dad is baby talk. The word dad entered the English language at the beginning of the sixteenth century in the written form of dadye, from the Latin tata, from the Greek tétta, tatâ, and from Sanscrit tata.²⁶ Barack Hussein Obama's origin is unknown. Perhaps the name Barack Hussein Obama will become informal English meaning evil politician.²⁷

It is worth noting that in approximately the middle of the nineteenth century and into the twentieth century, a daddy meant a person winning the prize at a mock raffle, a faked lottery. Transpose this definition to the presidential election of 2008 and we have a fake candidate with fake documents winning a faked election. The presidential election was rigged in many states by the SEIU (Service Employees International Union) and the interest group ACORN (Association of Community Organization for Reform Now)²⁸.

Barack Hussein Obama's writing of sentences that are to be read by the reader as evoking the truth, but yet do not reflect the truthful reality of a situation is an exercise in sublime subtlety. Persons who have not learned the tactics behind and the meaning of Saul Alinsky's *Rules for Radicals*²⁹ are not immediately capable of reading between and behind the lines of what Barack Hussein Obama writes. This same statement is also true regarding Barack Hussein Obama's speeches.

In the three-act play Major Barbara, (1907), George Bernard Shaw has Mr. Underschaft say in Act III, "He knows nothing and thinks he knows everything. That points clearly to a political career." With respect to Barack Hussein Obama, the statement has proven to be the truth. The ultimate in destruction is that Barack Hussein Obama began his political life as a community organizer in Chicago, Illinois. The illustrative results of Barack Hussein Obama's questionable community organization abilities show more destruction than construction.³⁰ As the bogus potus of the United States of America, Barack Hussein Obama has become an example of a perfect disorganizer and destroyer.

Barack Hussein Obama is definitely a person who should not be emulated as a father. He is of a typical Alinskyite maxim: Be in your public appearance the opposite of what you really are.
