The American Crisis

Our Part Is Finding The Traitors And Exhibiting Them To Justice

A Call To Take Action Number Four

At a recent meeting of a reputable number of American Patriots impressed with a proper sense of the justice of the cause which this country is engaged in, and animated with a generous fervor for supporting the same, it was resolved that the following be laid before the American People:

We profess liberality of sentiment to all men; with this distinction only, that those who do not deserve it would become wise and seek to deserve it. We hold the pure doctrines of universal liberty of conscience, and conceive it our duty to endeavor to secure that sacred right to others, as well as to defend it for ourselves; for we undertake not to judge of the religious rectitude of tenets, but leave the whole matter to Him who made us.

We persecute no man, neither will we abet in the persecution of any man for religion's sake – like Islam does; our common relation to others being that of fellow-citizens and fellow-subjects of one single community; and in this line of connection we hold out the right hand of fellowship to all men. But we should conceive ourselves to be unworthy members of the free and independent United States of America, were we unconcernedly to see or to suffer any treasonable wound, public or private, directly or indirectly, to be given against the peace and safety of the same. We inquire not into the rank of the offenders, nor into their religious persuasion; we have no business with either, our part is finding the traitors and exhibiting the traitors to justice.

The Bill of Rights guaranteeing basic freedoms to American citizens is no more! The National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA), a law signed on January 3, 2014 by the putative president Barack Hussein Obama, whom we do not suppose to be natural born citizen of this country, has scarcely been discussed by the enslaved enemedia. Had the formulators of that law conceived it their duty to exhort American citizens to a patient submission under the trying visitations, and humbly to wait the event of heaven towards them, they had therein shown a Christian temper, and WE the People had been silent; but the anger and political virulence with which their instructions are given, and the abuse with which they stigmatize all ranks of men not thinking like themselves, leave no doubt in our minds from what spirit their law proceeded: and it is disgraceful to the pure cause of truth, that men can dally with words of the most sacred import, and play them off as mechanically as if politics consisted only in contrivance. We know of no instance in which American Patriots are forbidden by the Constitution for the United States of America to bear arms, or to do anything which might strain their conscience; wherefore their position to withstand and refuse to submit to the arbitrary instructions and ordinances of the government appear to us a proper standpoint, and could only be reasonably calculated to gain favor with the like-minded Americans, when the Obama regime is seemingly on the brink of invading free and separate States, or, what is still worse, on the way to weakening the hands of our defence, that Obama's total control of American citizens might be made practicable and easy. Is it not feasible that this would be accomplished with the assistance of foreign forces?

We disclaim all tumult and disorder in the execution of the Obama regime proclamations and dictatorial decrees; and wish to be governed, not by evil but by reason. We are sensible that our cause has suffered by the two following errors: first, by ill-judged lenity to traitorous persons; and, secondly, by only a weak, superficial condemnation of them. For the future we disown both, and wish to be steady in our proceedings, and serious in our punishments of traitors and anti-American criminals.

Every State in America should, by the repeated voice of its inhabitants, direct and authorize the Congress to publish a formal and renewed Declaration of Independence, and separation from the oppressive Obama regime; and WE the People look on every man and woman as an enemy who does not in some line or other give his assistance towards supporting the same; at the same time WE the People consider the offence to be heightened to a degree of unpardonable guilt, when such persons, under the show of peace – like Muslims do – endeavor, either by writing, speaking, or otherwise, to subvert, overturn, or bring reproach upon the independence of this country as heralded by the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

When Barack Hussein Obama and his regime refuse to be obedient to the Constitution for the United States of America and federal and State ordinances that have so long guaranteed liberty, tranquility, and peace, then such action, if it is not treason, we know not what may properly be called by that name.

To American Patriots it is a matter of surprise and astonishment that politicians with the words "peace, peace, peace" continually on their lips, should be so fond of living under and supporting a dictatorial regime, and at the same time call it "happy", which is never better pleased than when it calls for class conflict and united regime thugs to cut the throats of the freemen of America, Black and White. We conceive it a disgrace to this country to harbor or wink at such palpable hypocrisy. But as we seek not to hurt the hair of any man's head when we can make ourselves safe without, we wish such persons to restore peace to themselves and to us, by removing themselves to some part of the other world of dictators, as by that means they may live unmolested by us and WE the People by them; for our fixed opinion is that those who do not deserve a place among us, like Barack Hussein Obama and his regime, ought not to have one.

We conclude with requesting the American People to take into consideration the unlawful acts of the Barack Hussein Obama regime and its scandals, and if it shall appear to them to be of a dangerous tendency, or of a treasonable nature, that they would commit the accused, together with such other persons as they can discover were concerned therein, into custody, until such time as some mode of trial shall ascertain the full degree of their guilt and punishment; in the doing of which, we wish their judges, whoever they may be, to disregard the person, his connections, interest, riches, poverty, or principles of religion, and to attend to the nature of his offence only:

TREASON!

The most caviling sectarian cannot accuse the foregoing with containing the least ingredient of persecution. The free spirit on which the American cause is founded disdains to mix with such an impurity, and leaves it as rubbish fit only for narrow and suspicious minds to grovel in. Suspicion and persecution are weeds of the same dunghill, and flourish together. Had the Obama thugs been stopped before their criminal politics became business, had their evilness been stifled, Americans might have lived through these present times in enviable ease, and no one would have molested them. The common phrase with these people is, Our principles are hope and change! What difference does it now make? If you like your health plan you can keep your health plan. If you like your doctor, you can keep your doctor. That's a promise. Al-Qaida is on the run! We will bring terrorists to justice. To which must be replied because their practices are the reverse; for never did the conduct of men and women oppose their own doctrine more notoriously than the present race of the Obama thugs. They have artfully changed themselves into a different sort of people from Americans than what true Americans thought them to be, and yet they have the address to persuade each other that they are not altered; like antiquated virgins, they see not the havoc deformity has made upon them, but pleasantly mistaking wrinkles for dimples, conceive themselves yet lovely and wonder at the stupid world for not admiring them.

Did no injury arise to the public by this apostasy of the Obama followers from themselves? The American Patriotic public would have nothing to do with it; but as both the design and consequences are pointed against a cause in which the whole community are interested, it is therefore no longer a subject confined to the cognizance of the participants only, but comes, as a matter of criminality before the authority either of the particular State in which it is acted, or of the country against which it operates. Every attempt now to support the authority of the Obama regime over America is treason against every State; therefore it is impossible that anyone can pardon or screen from punishment an offender against all.

But to proceed: while the infatuated progressives, obots, liberals, dumbed downers, and socialists-communist of the United States of America are talking of control and rule making, and the Lord knows what stuff and nonsense, their good king Obama and ministry thugs are glutting themselves with the revenge of reducing America to unconditional submission, and solacing each other with the certainty of conquering it in one final presidential term.

We American Patriots will be obstinate, undutiful, and ungovernable from the very beginning. I am every day more and more convinced that WE the People never will be brought back to do Obama's will, and stand in subordinate relation to him. If WE the People will be reduced to unconditional, effectual submission, no concession on our part, no lenity, no endurance, will have any other effect but that of increasing our insolence.

The struggle is now a struggle for power; the die is cast and the only point which now remains to be determined is in what manner the re-taking of America can be most effectually prosecuted and speedily finished in order to procure that unconditional submission, which has been so ably stated by the noble Declaration of Independence, and I have no reason to doubt that the measures now pursuing will put an end to the Obama regime in the course of a single, up-coming election. Should it linger longer, we shall then have reason to expect that Barack Hussein

Obama's power will interfere and take advantage of our domestic troubles and civil distractions.

My sentiments are pretty well known. I shall only observe now that lenient measures have had no other effect than to produce insult after insult; that the more we conceded, the higher Barack Hussein Obama rose in his demands, and the more insolent he has grown. It is for this reason that I am now for the most effective and decisive measures; and am of opinion that no alternative is left us, but to regain America forever and to compel Obama and his minions to acknowledge the source of legislative authority of this country – WE the People; and it is the principle of an unconditional submission on Obama's part I would be for maintaining.

Can words be more expressive than these? Surely WE the People will believe the American Patriots! The truth is, WE the People do believe American Patriots and know as fully as any anti-American knows, that king Obama and his regime never had the least design of an accommodation with America, but an absolute, unconditional conquest. The part which Barack Hussein Obama and his thugs were to act was by downright lying to endeavor to put the country off its guard, and to divide and sow discontent in the minds of such Americans as they might gain an influence over. In short, to keep up a distraction that the Obama forces might be able to conquer in one presidential term. The bastard lamestream media and the Obama thugs were, by a different game, playing into each other's hands. The cry of the DemocRATS in Washington was, "No reconciliation, no accommodation," in order to maintain the greater hand; while those in America were crying LISTEN TO US, WE THE PEOPLE!

But this second and more evil Obama term is almost over and America has not been conquered by him. The whole work is yet to do, and the force much less to do it with. Their condition is both despicable and deplorable: out of cash – out of heart, and out of hope, and out of change! A country whose American Patriots are furnished with arms and ammunition as American Patriots now are, with millions of inhabitants, and many miles distant from the Washington, D. C. enemy that can approach her, is able to look and laugh them in the face.

Obama appears to have two objects in view, either to lie, or to lie more. By lying he secures time; by lying more he must face revolution. Barack Hussein Obama's true business is to conquer the United States of America, and in proportion as he finds himself unable to the task, he will employ his strength to distress men, women, and weak minds in order to accomplish through their fears what he cannot accomplish by his own force. 'Tis a circumstance that proves his weakness: it has feebleness and cowardice on the face of it, and holds him up in a contemptible light to all who can reason justly and firmly. By several sources of information, it appears that the Obama domestic army, made up of the Federal Emergency Management Authority (FEMA), the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS), Organizing for America, and union thugs, in general, both leaders and followers, have given up the expectation of conquering America easily, or at all; their eyes now fixed upon the spoil. America is rich with stores, and as they think to get more by robbing, their movement towards this goal is discernible. We are now contending against an army of lumps of thugs, against a band of thieves, who had rather plunder than fight, and have no other hope of conquest than by cruelty.

They expect to get a mighty booty, and strike another general panic, by making a sudden movement and getting possession of major sectors of society; but unless they can control the banks, the armed forces, the total media, they may probably be stopped with the stolen goods upon them. Barack Hussein Obama has never yet succeeded wherever he has have been opposed without his teleprompters and Valerie Jarrett. A community organizer will run away when confronted without the outcome clearly having been decided in his favor beforehand.

The necessity of always fitting our internal patriotic forces to the circumstances of the times we live in is something so strikingly obvious that no sufficient objection can be made against it. The safety of all societies depends upon it; and where this point is not attended to, the consequences will either be a general languor or a tumult. The encouragement and protection of the good subjects of any country, and the suppression and punishment of bad ones, are the principal objects for which all authority is instituted, and the line in which it ought to operate. We have in this country a strange variety of men and characters, and the circumstances of the times require that they should be publicly known; it is not the number of DemocRATS and Obamas that hurt us, so much as the not finding out who they are. Men and women must now take one side or the other, and abide by the consequences: the Republicans In Name Only (RINOs), trusting to their short-sighted sagacity, have, most unluckily for them, made their declaration. They have involuntarily read themselves out of belonging to the country, and cannot hope to be restored to it again but by payment and penitence. Men whose political principles are founded on avarice are beyond the reach of reason.

The only cure the DemocRATS and the Obama thugs envision are to tax. Perhaps those who want to tax should be those who should be taxed more! A substantial good drawn from a real evil is of the same benefit to society as if drawn from a virtue; and where men have not public spirit to render themselves serviceable, it ought to be the study of government to draw the best use possible from their vices. When the governing passion of any man or woman, or set of men or women, is once known, the method of managing them is easy; for even misers, whom no public virtue can impress, would become generous, could a heavy tax be laid upon covetousness, and it is covetousness the DemocRATS and the Obama-like politicians want – the coveting of other people's hard-earned money.

The Obama regime have endeavored to insure their property with the anti-American enemies like George Soros, by forfeiting their reputation with us; from which may be justly inferred that their governing passion is avarice. Make them as much afraid of losing on one side as on the other and you stagger their bank accounts; make them more so, and you reclaim them; for their principle is to worship the power which they are most afraid of.

This method of considering men and things together, opens into a large field for speculation, and affords me an opportunity of offering some observations on the situation of our currency so as to make the support of it go hand in hand with the suppression of disaffection and the encouragement of public spirit.

The aspect which first presents itself in inspecting the situation of the currency is the federal banking system – the institution called the Federal Reserve System – that should be disbanded, for it has not, even under expanded powers, met the two key objectives of monetary policy presented in a 1977 amendment to the Federal Reserve Act to which it was assigned: a) to promote the maximum sustainable output and employment, b) to promote price stability. It appears that manipulating moderate, long-term interest rates is only a method to accomplish the two goals above. At the same time, it must be said that under the socialist-communist system of Barack Hussein Obama, interest rates must be done away with because interest rates mean capitalism and for Obama capitalism is a dirty ten-letter word.

The second matter that deserves inspecting is a return to the gold/silver standard. The natural, positive aspects of a gold/silver standard outweigh the constructed, negative attributes concocted by fly-by-night economists, particularly Keynesian and neo-Keynesian economic theorists. The gold/silver standard can better guarantee long-term price stability; can provide fixed, international exchange rates for countries participating in the gold/silver standard system, which means that gold/silver used to pay for imports reduces the importing nation's money supply, which in turn causes deflation, and thus makes them more competitive; and a gold/silver standard does not allow for a kind of tax called financial repression – the method by which wealth from creditors is transferred to debtors. The gold/silver standard stops deficit spending and guarantees property rights. The gold/silver standard means that imports cannot be purchased with money that is not genuine. Because the United States of America is not on a gold/silver standard the Federal Reserve can inflate the money supply at will. The result is that more and more currency chases the same amount of goods and services, which causes an increase in their prices, which, in turn, causes the currency to be worth less, which in turn, causes debt to become a burden. Related to the increase in prices is the fact that the power of labor unions is so great that it is also they who drive prices upwards because they strike for exorbitant wages that are totally unreasonable, particularly for non-specialized workers and employees who never expended any amount of private money to receive a highly qualified education. This is the main argument why the power of unions and the thug members must be broken and the extravagant demands be brought down to normalcy and logic.

The third aspect is that there is too much money in circulation that has little worth. Because the United States of America no longer has a gold/silver standard to back up the currency, the more paper money there is in circulation, the less will be the value of the paper money. The equation is: the less amount of amount of currency there is in the economy, the higher the value of the currency and vice-versa. Simply stated we have too much of it, and that there is a necessity of reducing the quantity, in order to increase the value. The only reason why there have been no widespread increases in the prices of goods and services is because the new money has been kept out of normal circulation. Instead, the stock market, investors, and banks are sitting on mountainous heaps of the new money. They are waiting to see how the economy under Barack Hussein Obama and ObamaCare will develop. Whenever this new money is spent and loaned, it will circulate throughout the economy and cause huge price increases because even more money will be chasing after the same quantity of goods and services. The fact that the United States dollar is backed up by the Federal Reserve System is meaningless and under Barack Hussein Obama the value of a dollar is 17 trillion meaninglessnesses.

Men are daily growing poor by the very means that they take to get rich; for in the same proportion that the prices of all goods on hand are raised, the value of all money laid by is reduced because gold or silver no longer backs up the value of the currency. An across the surface simple case will make this clear. Let a man have 100 separate dollars in cash in his pocket and as many goods on hand as will today sell for 20 dollars; but not content with the present market price, he raises the price by 20 dollars to 40 dollars and by so doing obliges others to raise their price to 40 dollars. In this case it is evident that his 100 dollars laid by in his pocket is reduced 50 dollars in value; whereas, if he had cut his price to 10 dollars and the other sellers on the market had cut their prices in half, the 100 separate dollars laid by in his pocket could now buy what previously would have required 200 dollars; because it would then purchase as many goods again, or assist in supporting his family as long again as before. Strange as it may seem, he is 150 dollars the poorer for raising his goods, to what he would have been had he lowered them; because the 40 dollars which his goods sold for, is, by the general raise of the market rendered of no more value than the 10 dollars would be had the market fallen in the same proportion; and, consequently, the whole difference of gain or loss is on the difference in value of the 100 dollars laid by, viz. from 50 to 200.

This rage for raising prices is for several reasons much the fault of the DemocrATS leveling of economics, and when such economics are instituted they blame the capitalists for its defects. Capitalism is blamed for results it did not cause. The DemocrATS become by far the most noisy and discontented. The greatest part of the DemocrATS, particularly those employed in some public service, are buyers only and not sellers, and as this evil has its origin in trade, it cannot be charged on those who are out of it.

But the grievance has now become too general to be remedied by partial methods, and the only effectual cure is to reduce the quantity of money: with half the quantity we should be richer than we are now, because the value of it would be doubled, and consequently our attachment to it increased; for it is not the number of dollars that a man or woman has, but how far they will go, that makes them either rich or poor.

These two points being admitted, viz. that the quantity of money is too great, and that the prices of goods can only be effectually reduced by reducing the quantity of the money, the next point to be considered is the method how to reduce it.

The circumstances of the times, as before observed, require that the public characters of all men should now be fully understood, and the only general method of ascertaining it is by an oath or affirmation, renouncing all allegiance to the king of Washington, D. C., and to support the total independence of the United States of America, as declared by Congress. Be it nonetheless an over simplification, let, at the same time, a tax of ten, fifteen, or twenty percent per annum, to be collected quarterly, be levied on all property. These alternatives, by being perfectly voluntary, will take in all sorts of people. Here is the test; here is the tax. He who takes the former, conscientiously proves his affection to the cause, and binds himself to pay his quota by the best services in his power, and is thereby justly exempt from the latter; and those who choose the latter, pay their quota in money, to be excused from the former, or rather, it is the price paid to us for their supposed, though mistaken, insurance with the economists.

But this is only a part of the advantage which would arise by knowing the different characters of men. The DemocrATS stake everything on the issue of their fool-proof economics, all the while sapping and undermining America's strength; and, of consequence, the property of Americans is the more exposed thereby; and whatever injury their estates may sustain by the movements of the DemocRATS, must either be borne by themselves, who have done everything which has yet been done, or by those who have not only done nothing, but have, by their disaffection, invited the enemy on to continue false economic policies.

In the present crisis we ought to know, square by square and house by house, who are in real allegiance with the independent United States of America, and who are not. Let but the line be made clear and distinct, and all men will then know what they are to trust to. It would not only be good policy but strict justice to reverse the situation, to raise financial support out of the estates and property of the rich Obama votaries, to be paid to the federal treasury to bind the property of all such persons to make good the damages which they created and which the United States of America might sustain in the undistinguishable mode of conducting a repossession of the United States of America.

In every former publication of mine down to the last American Crisis, I have generally gone on the charitable supposition, that the DemocRATS were rather a mistaken group than a criminal people, and have applied argument after argument, with all the candor and temper which I was capable of, in order to set every part of the case clearly and fairly before them, and if possible to reclaim them from ruin to reason. I have done my duty by them and have now done with that doctrine, taking it for granted, that those who yet hold their disaffection are either a set of avaricious miscreants, who would sacrifice the continent to save themselves, or a banditti of hungry traitors, who are hoping for a division of the spoil. To which may be added, a list of social parasite dependants, who, rather than go without a portion of power, would be content to share it with the devil. Of such men there is no hope, and their obedience will only be according to the danger set before them and the power that is exercised over them.

A time will shortly arrive in which, by ascertaining the characters of persons now, we shall be guarded against their mischiefs then; for in proportion as the enemy despair of conquest, they will be trying the arts of seduction and the force of fear by all the mischiefs which they can inflict. But in our struggle, WE the People may be certain of these two things, viz. that cruelty in an enemy, and motions made with more than usual parade, are always signs of weakness. He that can conquer finds his mind too free and pleasant to be brutish; and he that intends to conquer never makes too much show of his strength.

We now know the enemy we have to do with. While drunk with the certainty of victory, they disdain to be civil; and in proportion as disappointment makes them sober, and their apprehensions of a conflict alarm them, they will become cringing and artful; honest they cannot be. But our answer to them, in either condition they may be in, is short and full – "As free and independent States we are willing to make peace with you to-morrow on our terms only, but we neither can hear nor reply in any other character."

If Barack Hussein Obama cannot conquer us, it proves that he is neither able to govern nor protect us, and our particular situation now is such that any connection with him would be unwisely exchanging a position of dominance for a position of subservience. Therefore, the only road to peace, honor, and commerce is independence from the Obama regime.

Find the traitors and exhibit them to justice!

Written this 238th year of the Declaration of Independence, which God preserve.
